Bury Your Sorrows.

BY "LOUISE."

Bury your sorrow, though it crushes your heart,
Remember of human life it is a part;
Bury your sorrow, yes bury it now,
Smooth every furrow off of your brow.

Bury your sorrow, though you see not hope's ray,
Give it to Jesus, He will bear it away,
Hide it so carefully by day and by night,
Bury your sorrow and strive to do right.

Bury your sorrow, hide it with care,
Twill soon rest in Heaven, there's no sorrow there.
Then with your folded hands tight, o'er your breast,
Bury your sorrow and there let it rest.

Selected Story.

Roger Wilson's Ghost.

Reuben Wilson stood in the doorway of his store long after the last customer had departed. Behind him were displayed in the glow of two kerosene lamps rows of bottles too frequently in demand, boxes of tea, piles of dry goods, and other innumerable and diversified belongings of a country grocery.

Before him was stretched the beautiful bay, which juts in from the Sound, and gives to Port Jefferson its chief glory and wide-world celebrity as a boat-building locality.

From this place the yacht Wanderer went off on her wild cruise, and here are to be found the bravest, hardiest, and roughest men that Long Island can produce.

It was a cold, clear night, late in the year, and the masts of many vessels stood out in bold relief against the steel-gray back-ground, looking like phantom ships; while the plash, plash of the waves on the shore sounded distinct and solemn in the else unbroken silence of the night. The winter had been an unusually mild one; there was no hint of snow in the air, and vessels were continually arriving and departing, and keeping up their intercourse with the outside world. The lights that had glimmered here and there from the numberless windows went out one by one, like stars in a lower firmament, and darkness settled down upon the sleeping village.

Reuben appeared as if in a dream; and standing there in the doorway, his arms rigidly locked on his breast, his crisp locks forming an ebony crown around his brows, he seemed like another Theseus awaiting his commission from the gods. At times his eyes were fixed upon the bay, shining clear and unruffled in the starlight, and again his gaze would wander to a cottage nestling against the opposite hill-side where Janet Barnaby had lived and labored for these many years.

But Reuben is conscious that he has been standing, statue-like, for about an hour in the frosty air; and so he finishes [illegible] lights, puts a few wet ashes on the fire, and turns in to his bunk of a bedroom. The bed room would have made you smile. It was the receptacle for all the odds and ends that are apt to collect themselves together in the transactions of trade, and were particularly heterogeneous on account of the mixed character of the stock that usually supplies a country grocery. There were boxes thrown up in one corner, unsalable rat-traps, boat-hooks and grappling-irons in another; while bits of sail-cloth, tarred ropes, and tarpaulin were scattered over the floor without any regard to order or picturesque effect.

Just behind the door was Reuben's bed—a long, narrow chest, which had done service as a sailor's kit, and had been consigned to Reuben in part payment of a long-standing debt. It was a very convenient affair, differing from the usual style of sleeping accommodations in that it was taken to pieces every morning, and put in shape again at bedtime. It was but little trouble to open the lid, and take from the capacious hold the small mattress, pillow and bedclothes that were stored therein; and on this hard couch Reuben Wilson passed into Sunday through the Strait of Dreamland.

He had been thinking of Roger all day, his brother Roger, whose slight request he had refused, and so made himself miserable for life; and as he lapsed into sleep it all came up before him, and he could almost hear Roger's voice urging him, as he had done that distant but never-to-be forgotten day.

"Come, Reuben, we must take this yacht over to Bridgeport; it is promised this week."

"I say I won't. It's no fit weather to go any way, and to-morrow will do just as well."

"To-morrow won't do as well for me, Reuben, for I have leave to go with Janet to West Meadows on Thursday. Tuthill says he can spare me and Janet needs a holiday."

"So do I. Tuthill favors you and Janet more than is fair. I swear I won't go to-day to please any of you."

"Well, then, I must go along, I suppose."

It was not a great undertaking, to be sure, Bridgeport lying directly opposite; and Roger could return in the packet which would make her semi-weekly trip to Port Jefferson next day.

Reuben was not often in the sulks; and perhaps if Roger had not mentioned Janet's name, there would have been no controversy whatever. But Reuben was jealous of his brother, and the temptation was too great for him to resist his influence against their anticipated pleasure.

So Roger went across the Sound alone. He was not so good a sailor as his brother Reuben, though full as honest and reliable; and, having the work to do, set about doing it at once with unflinching determination. The yacht drifted back into the harbor bottom side up; and after the first excitement occasioned by his disappearance had subsided, Roger Wilson slipped out of his place among his comrades as if a whirlwind had seized him. Late in the night and early in the dawn Reuben Wilson watched and waited for the return of his brother—the brother he had murdered; for was it not equivalent to murder to allow him to cross the Sound alone in a toy—boat? He might just as well have gone with him as not, and would have done so but for that devilish feeling at his heart which prompted him to do Satan's own work. Out to the bar every chance he got, searching in every hole and corner for some vestige of the lost one, anything that would do away with this dread uncertainty.

But there was nothing. The waves went singing their requiem over the departed, dancing and flashing their mocking radiance in the face of every mourner and then brought no message of hope or forgiveness to Reuben Wilson. Janet came often to him for consolation, but he had none to give her. The sight of the girl almost crazed him, and he wondered that she didn't die then and there. He could weep over her grave, and plant roses and evergreens around it, but it was no relief to his agony to see her moving about like a half-dead woman. And she always wanted to talk about Roger when she saw him, and would come down to the shore where she knew she would find him, and motion him to sit down beside her on a bit of mast, and then go over all the scenes in which she and Roger had participated.

She had the bluest eyes out of heaven, had Janet Barnaby, and the sweetest smile that ever rippled over mortal cheek; and when she rested her head on her hand, and gazed away and away where the sky leaned down to kiss the sea, one could almost fancy that the harbor's mouth was one of the celestial gateways through which her spirit passed to hold converse with angelic ones.

And she always talked of Roger as if she could see him standing there at the entrance of the bay, and frequently asked Reuben if those we loved and lost so strangely never came to tell us they were dead.

Reuben would sometimes shut his ears, so as not to hear her go on in this terrible way; it half crazed him, and he didn't know what he might be tempted to do.

But Janet had other sorrows to meet in the death of her father and mother, and for a while forgot to disturb the ashes under which were burning the memory of her lost love. She went out to service in Captain Tuthill's family; and as there were young people in the house, and fun and frolic going on continually, she soon recovered her spirits and was as young and gay as any one.

Reuben had lost his taste for ship-building.

There was not excitement enough about it; and so he opened a store and found plenty of customers among the seafaring men who frequented the place or were residents there.

Five years had passed since Roger went out of the bay into eternity—five long years.

Reuben had never married, for he would marry no one but Janet, and Janet declared she wouldn't have him; and so he waited year after year, hoping to overcome her predjudices.

"I can't marry, Reuben; I don't feel free to do so. How would you feel if Roger would ever come back?"

"Roger wasn't the sort of man to stay away five years and then come back. Do be reasonable, Janet; Roger would much rather see you my wife than the wife of a stranger."

"I don't know about that," said Janet, shaking her head rather incredulously "I'm not so certain. Roger knew you were jealous of him, and he'd [illegible] and I won't," and with that she went back to the knife-scouring which Reuben's case had interrupted.

"How queer some women are!" soliloquized Reuben, sauntering home by the shore road.

"Captain Many's widow married before the year was out; and Selina Brewster, who went into fits when she heard of the loss of the White Squall, went off on the next trip to the Mary J. Hulse as Captain Ed's wife; and what a talk was made of it! But here is that Janet who, because she hasn't seen the grave dug and the tombstone set up, feels herself just as much a married woman as Captain Beebe's wife, and more, perhaps, for they do say some hard things about the captain." But neither Reuben's entreaties nor the solicitations of half the marriageable young men in Port, changed the resolution of Janet Barnaby.

"If Roger was dead I should know of it," was what she said confidently to herself, and what kept hope alive in her heart, when it had died out from every one else's.

Through all these experiences did Reuben Wilson travel in his excursion through dreamland, and very restless and uneasy were his slumbers in consequence. It seemed to him as if all the graves in the place were opened, and their fleshless occupants had taken advantage of the opportunity to torment him. They danced inside the chest on which he was lying; they took possession of his property; and every red herring and tenpenny nail, every corkscrew, gimlet, and cheese-knife—in fact, even the empty basket and bits of sail cloth—seemed to be animate with life, and came to whisper in his ear, with mockings and menaces unendurable.

And he was so powerless to resist them! He, with the muscles of a Titan, to match against their puny strength! But try as he would he could never succeed in dispelling them; they eluded his grasp, and sat grinning at him as if they enjoyed his discomfiture.

And then they all resolved themselves into one shape—a tall gigantic form, whose breath exhausted all the air in the room; and Reuben thought he gasped for breath, and looked up beseechingly, only to encounter the face of his brother.

He wanted to shriek, but something held him by the throat; and he could only look in those eyes which held his own by a cruel power; and, looking thus intently and longingly, he was conscious that the figure became more and more indistinct, and when he was able to articulate—"Roger!"—which he did with all the intensity of feeling he could command—it disappeared altogether, and Reuben was alone. The first gleam of the morning sun was working its way through a chink in the shutters; the room was in the same disorderly condition, to which he had been so long accustomed that any change therein would have been at once unhomelike and unwelcome. He was glad to be awake—glad to escape from the horried network of dreams into the security and peace afforded by the daylight. After the reaction from the perturbation of the night, when he had prepared and eaten his breakfast of salt mackeral, and cleared out his store, he began to feel in better humor than he had been for some time.

He whistled and sang, and waited cheerfully on the few customers who strolled in during the morning; for the schooner James L. Bogart had come in during the night, or rather in the early dawn, and the crew were anxious to stretch their legs, and enjoy a stroll on shore and in the company of their old companions. At nine o'clock Reuben put up the shutters, for it was Sunday, and he had been invited to dine with some friends, where Janet was expected to spend that evening. He was sure of Janet now, and he wanted dreadfully to go round by Captain Tuthill's and tell her what he had seen in the night. It would convince her—he was sure it would; but perhaps it would be as well to wait until evening, when he could see her alone, and where her agitation would not be remarked. So he strolled along the upper road, instead of going by the beach, and amused himself selecting a location for the house he would build when Janet gave her consent to become his wife.

"Reuben is like his old self," said John Morgan to his wife, by whose fireside later in the day Reuben was cracking his jokes and drinking cider. "I don't know when I've seen him so chipper.

"Not since my time," said Maria Morgan, she who was Maria Beardsley—"not since my time, I reckon; for we girls used to call him old porcupine ever so long ago."

"Well, but he didn't used to be hedgehoggy at all. It all came of Roger disappearing so suddenly, and him feeling as if he'd sent him to judgement; though it's all nonsense. There wasn't a blow struck except what goes with a hasty word, and if Roger would and Reuben wouldn't I don't see as either's to blame."

"Well, Roger was more to my fancy," said Maria from the corner of the milk-room, where she was setting away the clean dishes, "though I don't know that I'd be such a ninny as Janet Barnaby. A home of your own is better than any body's house, and a husband above ground is enough sight better than a lover in the bottom of the sea."

"Well, Janet is"—began the less philosophical husband.

"Janet!" exclaimed the wife, seeing that young woman standing in the doorway.

"That's a fact!" said John Morgan, but whether in response to his wife's remark or his own conclusion it might be difficult to determine.

Reuben thought he would wait to see Janet alone; he would go over home with her, and that would be a good opportunity. But Janet appeared so bright and smiling, so much more gracious in manner than she had been of late, that his impatience overcame him, and he decided to make his ghost-story part of the evening's entertainment.

He was much more inclined thereto by the knowledge that both John and Maria favored his suit, and might possibly influence Janet more than he would be able to do unaided.

They sat round the stove, the two women on one side, the two men on the other, sometimes having duets of chat, and occasionally uniting in an uproarious quartette. And how the smiles did chase over Janet's face! and how bright her eyes shone! It did one's eyes good just to look at her.

"Now we'll have a ghost-story," said John Morgan, "just by way of variety. Reuben, you're up head; you take the lead."

"Well, I will," said Reuben, promptly, only too glad of this easy way of introducing his night adventure.

"I saw a ghost last night."

"Last night!" exclaimed John; "that's too new. Give us one that's a little further off, or I shall fancy he hasn't found his right resting place yet."

"Oh no; we'd rather have a fresh one," said Maria; "wouldn't we, Janet?" to which Janet acceded; and as there were two against one, and the women in the majority, Reuben began his ghost story;

"Roger is surely dead," said Reuben, as he finished the recital.

"Certain sure," said John Morgan.

"I never doubted it," said Maria. "I think Reuben has made himself needlessly unhappy."

Only Janet was silent.

"If any body has suffered, that man is Reuben Wilson; and I think it's high time he had his reward."

Reuben looked over at Janet, but her eyes were on her lap, and for the first time he noticed she wore a ring on the third finger of her left hand.

"What did it mean?"

"Janet, why don't you speak?" asked Maria Morgan, coming back from the mental examination of the subject. "Don't Reuben's dream convince you that Roger went into eternity five years ago?"

"No, it don't," replied Janet. "I saw Roger myself last night, or rather, early this morning," she added hesitatingly.

"Saw Roger yourself, Janet!" exclaimed Reuben, springing from his chair, and seizing her furiously by the arm—"saw Roger yourself! and won't believe it, when you declared it only needed this to convince you?"

"I said—let go of my arm, Reuben!—I said if Roger was dead, I should know it; I have always said so and I say it now."

"But if his ghost appeared to you, as it did to me—"

Before Janet could answer there was a loud knock at the door—an imperative knock, that startled John and Maria Morgan, and made Reuben's knees strike together.

Only Janet was calm, and she opened the door. It was a tall, athletic fellow, wrapped in a heavy gray ish shawl, and his eyes shaded with a broad-brimmed hat, who stood on the threshold awaiting an invitation to enter.

"Come in," said Janet, taking upon herself the rites of hospitality the others felt incapable of offering—"come in; this is a wintry night, and no one can refuse you a seat by the fire;" and she sat him a chair close by her own.

"Reuben," she went on, as if there had been no interruption in their talk, "I didn't say I saw a ghost last night, but I saw Roger Wilson—and this is he!" and she laid her head upon his shoulder.

"Roger!" grasped Reuben, "my brother," and laying his head upon the table beside him, he wept out his joy, his grief, his disappointment.

Roger was the first to speak, and break the silence that was becoming really painful.

"I am very sorry you blamed yourself so much, Reuben. It was all my own fault; and had I died, my ghost would never have come to accuse you of murder. But I was picked up and taken to the West Indies, being too far gone to tell anything about myself for several weeks. When I got well I saw a chance to make something; and I hadn't the courage to come back to Port Jefferson without a cent in my pocket, and no strength in my back. So I went to California, and picked up considerable, and then made up my mind to see after Janet, I know I might have written; but I am no hand at talking on paper, and the only way to be happy was to keep Janet out of my mind."

"Yes," said Maria Morgan, giving vent to her indignation, "that's just the way with you men! If I was Janet, I'd send you back to Halifax, to pay you for the five years of misery I'd spent on your account."

"Hush, Maria," expostulated the milder John.

"Hush? It's no time to hush. A woman may as well speak her mind; and I do say that Reuben Wilson deserves Janet far more than does Roger."

"That may be," said Janet, blushing and smiling; "but I forgave Roger, and —we were married this morning."

"Married! Whew!" exclaimed John Morgan, nearly upsetting the table in his astonishment.

"Married, indeed?" said the practical Maria; "then that ends the business, Reuben, the milk is spilled, sure; and I'm glad of it, for now may be you can see that there's somebody else in Port Jefferson quite as good as Janet Barnaby —Wilson, I mean. Come, then, as our ghost turns out to be real flesh and blood, we may as well make merry at his expense. John, take the pitcher down cellar for more cider, while I fill up this dish of doughnuts. Janet, I am just as glad as I can be; and if I don't show it, it's because Reuben takes all the life out of my joy."

"Reuben," said Janet, going over to where he sat, still lost in thought, "there will always be a warm corner in my heart for you. God has given Roger back to us; is it in your heart to wish him dead?"

"No!" said Reuben, springing up and driving away the demons that had taken possession of him—"no, by the mother that bore us! Roger, forgive me; I'm a brute. It comes hard, but I'll get over it." And, with his great strong arms around his brother, he pledged himself anew to love and loyalty.

There was so much to tell, and all were so eager to listen, that it was almost morning before any one thought of saying good-night, or had heard the fare well of the midnight spirit as he went over the hills into the graveyard where our yesterdays are buried.

Roger took Janet back with him to California, and in the course of a year or two Reuben sold out the stock and fixtures of his store, and with his wife—Oh, I forgot to say that before the next winter he had found a wife, in every way better suited to him than Janet Barnaby! And finding that fortunes were no to be made in Port Jefferson, they sailed out of the little harbor, and made for themselves a new home in the distant El Dorado.

No ghosts came to trouble Reuben Wilson, and he and Roger are fast making their way in the world uniting their efforts in every praiseworthy enterprise and realizing every day that the ghosts of remorse and jealously are the only skeletons that have power to make us miserable.

Daniel Webster and his Speeches.

In one the debates in Congress, which suddenly called Daniel Webster to his feet, he made a brief but eloquent speech, apparently without any opportunity for previous preparation. In the course of his remarks he threw out the following sentence, which has ever since been admired as one of the most harmonious and expressive in the English language. He was speaking of our military conflict with Great Britain: "Our fathers raised their flag against a power to which, for purposes of foreign conquest and subjugation, Rome, in the height of her glory, is not to be compared; a power which has dotted over the surface of the whole globe with her possesions and military posts; whose morning drumbeat, following the sun in its course and keeping pace with the hours, circles the earth with one continuous and unbro

AN ATTEMPT TO REVIVE THE OLD CONFLICT.

We hear a good deal just now from the stump and much more in Democratic newspapers about "centralized despotisms," "the reserved rights of the States," and "the limitations imposed by the Constitution." The passage by Congress of a bill enforcing certain guarantees of the document upon which our Government rests, and in which now safely repose the rights and liberties of the whole people—white and black—is the cause which has provoked the simultaneous outbreak from these stump speakers and partisan editors. The true causes which demanded the passage of the enactment are overlooked or totally disregarded.

To understand the conflict which it is the endeavor to have fought over again it is not necessary to go back of the present generation. The old men may remember the struggle between the rival factions of HAMILTON and JEFFERSON, but the young men must remember that between the armies of LEE and GRANT. The first was in no doubt the beginning and the last was, we hope, the ending. The first decided nothing and the latter every thing, and, among others, that this is a nation. It did not abate one jot the vested rights of the States, nor confer a single new power upon the General Government. It only asserted such as it had possessed from the inception and confirmed them.

The doctrine of State rights, the legitimate sequence of which was secession, was opposed to any and all ideas of nationalism, and we have seen how inconsistent it was with universal liberty. It made the members supreme and the head subordinate. It asserted the power of secession, and it was defeated and overthrown, only to be revived again. But to the cause of the present dispute.

It appeared that there was an armed insurrection in certain States of the country, opposed to the Government and struggling for its subversion. The rights of certain classes of citizens were discharged and outraged. Men were being murdered for opinion's sake, their property destroyed, and civil war existed, only less dangerous than the great struggle which had preceded it, and of which it was the smouldering embers, because it was less extended and less powerful. The communities in which this State of affairs existed—the communities whose rights have been invoked and assumed, according to the States rights theory—were unable to cope with the disorder, and the power of that higher authority, as we maintain—the General government—was invoked. If in such an emergency it had no power to interfere in behalf of the commonweal, what becomes of the nation?

But it has such a power, and it needs no lawyer or judge to convince the people of the fact. Every school boy knows that the Constitution was ordained "in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and posterity." There is authority enough in the preamble of the Constitution to enact a dozen KuKlux laws and to suppress a dozen KuKlux rebellions. If these can exist—if any State in the Union is not in a state of domestic tranquility—if liberty is not secured to the citizen, and if there is no power to insure it, then indeed is our Government a failure and its theory a falsehood. We do not look at this question as lawyers, but as citizens interested in the perpetuity of the Union and anxious for the liberty of the people.

This whole talk about centralization is a snare and a delusion. No government ever existed, or can exist, that was not a unit and had not the power of self preservation. To be permanent it must be centralized but free. A confederation of independent States, with reserved rights more powerful than those delegated to the central authority, has in it the seeds of early dissolution; and if ours had ever been such an one, it would have been divided long before the attempt was made.

THE TREATY WITH FRANCE.

On the 10th inst., the treaty between Germany and France was definitely signed. At the last moment, whether impelled by a generous caprice, or touched by the unhappy condition of the French people, Prince BISMARCK announced a great concession. Instead of exacting the full five milliards of francs which he had insisted upon as the indemnity receivable by Germany, he struck off half a milliard—equal to $100,000,000. France hands over a bond for $900,000,000, to be redeemed in twelve months. This is convertible into stocks or consols, at the will of Germany. Of this money, $400,00,000 have been taken by Rothschild and Erlanger, the French bankers, and by Mr. Hahn, a great monetary power in Germany.

That there is a deficiency of Knowledge in the agricultural community no intelligent man questions. Every farm operation is really a scientific experiment, and unless the principles by which to reason from cause to effect be properly understood the farmer will be unable to know to a certainty whether he labors for profit or loss, and without scientific knowledge he will know about as little of the principles which govern the economy of farm operations as does the horse that draws the plow.

THE PROPOSED CONVENTION MOVEMENT ILLEGAL.

One of the arguments used to the people in favor of the Convention is that under our present Constitution it is impossible to evade making provision for the payment of the interest on the public debt; that the only hope of the people is in a new Constitution in which this obligation is not incorporated.

Suppose we briefly examine the matter. That there is a heavy debt is not denied. Bonds have been issued—regularly and in due form—with the Great Seal of the State stamped thereon. These bonds have been purchased on the faith of the contract of the State to pay. This much is admitted by all parties.

The Constitution of the United States is "the supreme law of the land." The reason why this should be so is obvious. The Federal Government would have been wholly valuless and inoperative if its Constitution and laws were not to be obeyed by the States. Indeed it would not be a government in any proper sense, if the States were independent of it, and could legislate without regard to it. The Constitution of the United States—Sec. 10. Art. 1—expressly declares that no State shall pass any "law impairing the obligation of contracts." This is a very important provision. A contract is an agreement to do, or not to do, a particular thing. By the obligation of a contract is here meant that duty of performing it which is recognized and enforced by the laws. If the law is so changed that the means of legally enforcing this duty are materially impaired, the obligation of the contract is no longer the same. Now is it not the avowed purpose of the advocates of a Convention to do this very thing? They have not only passed a Convention bill in violation of our own Constitution, but they propose to make a new Constitution in conflict with the supreme law of the land—the Constitution of the United States.

Thus it will be seen that the course of the Democracy in this matter is illegal and revolutionary all the way throughg. They are attempting what, if not checked at the ballot box, must result in danger, and possibly ruin, to our State and people.

PENNSYLVANIA REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION.

The Republican State Convention of Pennsylvania met at Harrisburg on the 17th inst and nominated Col. DAVID STANTON, of Beaver, for Auditor General, and ROBERT B. BEATH, of Schuylkill, for Surveyor General, both on the first ballot. The utmost harmony prevailed, and the ticket will be triumphantly elected. Among the resolutions adopted was the following:

Resolved, That the Administration of President Grant meets the full approval of the Republican party of Pennsylvania. His financial policy, by which the National Debt is steadily reduced; the reduction in expenditures of the Government; honest collection of the revenues; his fidelity to the principle of human rights, through which the liberty of all is to be secured in every part of the land; his loyalty to the people, in having no policy to enforce against their will; and the spotless integrity of his Administration, merit the continued confidence of the American people, and point to him as an honored leader of our party now, and a proper standard-boarer of the Republican party in 1872.

We invite special attention to the proclamation of Gov. CALDWELL. It is a well-timed and patriotic appeal to the good people of the State, and we trust that his word of warning will be heeded. The Governor is faithful in the performance of his great duties and he is true to the interests of North Carolina. Let him have the co-operation of every good man in it.

It may relieve our cotemporary of the Tarboro Southerner to know that we write our own editorials. Whatever of merit or demerit they may contain we are their author and are willing to bear all responsibility. We make no claim to much learning, but we always manage to write so as to be understood! "And that's what's the matter!"

The Versailles troops have entered Paris, and we may now hope that a "war" which has exhausted the patience of the world is finally closed. The Communists have entailed more misery upon Paris than the Germans themselves. It looks as though Imperalism may be revived and let NAPOLEON again set upon the throne.

Fire at Newbegun—Mr. Sanders' Shops Destroyed.

To the Editor of the North Carolinian:

On Saturday, May 20th, between 12 and 1 o'clock, the Coach, Carpenter and Blacksmith Shops of Mr. Joseph Sanders, near Newbegun Creek, took fire and was burned up. The fire is supposed to have originated from a stove-pipe.

The loss is very heavy on Mr. Sanders, as he saved only a small portion of his stock and tools. The main shop was formerly used as a store house, and is known as the Tisdale or Freshwater store, and was, a year or so ago used as such, by Mr. T. C. Fletcher.

Mr. Sanders had purchased the property and fitted the store house up as a Coach shop, and only commenced work in it about 1st January last, and had become quite a necessity to our people. He had acquired so good a character, as a workman, that, with the aid of three or four journymen and two blacksmiths, he could not keep up with his orders. In the excitement of the moment he came very near losing his life. In his efforts to extinguish the fire, he would have been burned, but for the aid of some men who happened to be present, and who forced him from his perilous situation. Mr. Sanders has, as he eminently deserves, the sympathies of our people. He is by nature a mechanic, he learned the trade and was putting up some very fine buggies without having served any apprenticeship. He is remarked as a sober and industrious young man, and though commencing business very poor, he had laid the foundation for a certain success. He has, by this misfortune, lost all his labor.

Court Proceedings.

SUPERIOR COURT PASQUOTANK COUNTY COUNTY N. C.

Quite a number of cases were disposed in our Court last week. There were several convictions, one or two cases of assault and Battery and twofor Larceny. The first of the latter was John Turner (col.) for stealing an ox from James Banks (col.) in Nixonton towlship. Sentenced 4 years to the Penitentiary. The other was Allen Moore (col.) of this place, He was arrested some time ago at the instance of Capt. Waters for stealing corn. He denied taking the corn from Waters but said he had stolen 1½ bushels from Capt. White with whom he was employed. The plea of a non compus mentus was urged in his behalf. This being proven his Honor the Judge imposed a light sentence for this the first offense—4 months in the county jail.

There was a will case from Camden County, an attempt to annul the will of the late Ambrose Walston. Having never married, and bequeathed his property to those who had lived with and taken care of him, suit was brought by his heirs at law to break the will. The jury decided against them.

The next important case was that of Herbert & Harriston vs., William Underwood. This was a case eliciting a great deal of interest and was the most important ever tried in our court. Emminent counsel were employed—Col. Wm. F. Martin and Hon. W. N. H. Smith of Norfolk for Plaintiffs, and C. W. Grandy Jr., Wm. H. Smith and J. H. Shaw for Defendant. It was an action brought on a bond given by the defendants to T. D. Warren, and endorsed by him to Jas. C. Warren, and by the last named person indorsed to the above named plaintiffs. The history of this matter is as follows: In September A D 1868 Dr. William Underwood then living in Norfolk, Va., purchased from J. S. Cannon and T. D. Warren a tract of land in North Carolina known as the "Great Park estate," containing as the grantors alleged 28,000 acres, the consideration being one dollar and a half per acre. The deed for said tract was made and delivered to Underwood, and he paid down in cash over sixteen thousand dollars and gave several bonds for the balance and secured them by a mortgage. In the deed before mentioned Cannon pretended to convey an undivided two-third part of said 28,000 acres, and Warren the remaining one-third, the amount of purchase money paid down was divided between said grantors in such a manner that to secure the balance to each according to their respective shares, three bonds of $2,000 each were delivered to Warren, and the balance, $19,200, was put into certain other bonds which were given to Cannon. One of these $2,000 bonds was indorsed by said T. D. Warren to his son, J. C. Warren, and by him indorsed to Messrs Herbert & Harriston, of Baltimore. When this bond became due, Dr. Underwood finding that the title to a large part of said Great Park Estate, had failed, refused to pay it, whereupon this suit. Plaintiffs declared on the bond, and Defendants pleaded counter claim and recoupment on account of failure of title. On the trial Plaintiffs took this position: That as the Plaintiffs in this suit took this bond from James C. Warren, the indorsee of T. D. Warren, before maturity with no knowledge of any equities existing between the original parties, but for a valuable consideration, said equities were barred and Defendants were by law bound to pay the note or bond. To which proposition Defendants replied: That this being a sealed instrument it was not negociable by the common law, and that the statute of North Carolina making bonds negociable provided that they could only be negociated according to the custom of Merchants in England in reference to inland bills of exchange, and as this bond was assigned to Plaintiffs as collateral security for a pre-existing debt, it was not protected, and 2d, as said bond was made in the State of Virginia and negociated in Maryland they must show that by the law of Maryland said bonds were negociable at the time this was indorsed to Plaintiffs, else it is not protected, 3d, that it being a bond given with a mortgage, and not stamped it was part, and parcel of said mortgage and entitled to no more protection than the mortgage itself. It appearing conclusively by the evidence that this bond was indorsed to the Plaintiffs only as collateral security for a pre-existing debt, Plaintiffs relied mainly on this point, that they got the bond from James C. Warren to whom it had been regularly indorsed for value and before maturity, hence all equities were barred.

This case occupied three days. In the charge to the Jury the Court charged that the legal presumption was that the Plaintiffs were owners of said bond for value, but that presumption could be rebutted, and the jury could inquire into the question of fraud in the original transaction between Cannon and Warren and Dr. Underwood in the sale of the land. The Jury remained out over 36 hours—standing two for Plaintiffs and ten for Defendant. It appearing that the Jury could not agree they were discharged by the Court.

A Card.

To the Editor of the North Carolinian:

Through the medium of your paper, permit me, in behalf of the ladies of the Baptist Fair, to express the kindest acknowledgments to the citizens of the town and county, for the good attention and liberal patronage bestowed during the recent Fair. They desire to return thanks to the fair ones of Camden county, who were pleased to add so much beauty and grace, as well as invaluable aid, by their agreeable presence and cheerful co-operation.

The young ladies of Chowan Female College, through Dr. McDowell, have imposed lasting and weighty obligations for their most exquisite and valuable contributions, in the way of wax flowers, paintings and embroidery.

They take great pleasure in acknowledging the kindness of Mr. Charles Guirkin and family—and, also, the favors of the Elizabeth City Silver Cornet Band, who were so good as to add the zest of "sweet music" to the occasion, at intervals, during the session of the Fair.

LAW OF NEWSPAPERS.—1. Any person who takes a paper regularly from the post-office—whether directed to his name or another—or whether he has subscribed or not, is responsible for the pay.

2. If a person orders his paper discontinued, he must pay all arrearages, or the publisher may continue to send it until payment is made, and collect the whole amount whether it is taken from the office or not.

3. If a subscriber orders his paper to be stopped at a certain time, and the publisher continues to send it, the subscriber is bound to pay for it if he takes it out of the post-office, The law proceeds on the ground that a man must pay for what he uses.

4. The Courts have decided that refusing to take newspapers and periodicals from the post-office, or removing and leaving them uncalled for is prima facie evidence of intentional fraud.

United States Senate.

On the 15th the Senate met at 11 o'clock only twelve members were in their seats. After prayer and the reading of the journal of Friday, Senator Cameron came into the Senate Chamber from the meeting of the Committee on Foreign Affairs, and, after favorably reporting the treaty, moved that the Senate go into Executive Session which was agreed to.

On the 16th in the United States Senate a resolution was agreed to requesting the President to communicate copies of all correspondence in the State Department in relation to the ship Hudson and schooner Washington, property of citizens of Connecticut, seized by the British authorities in the Frankland Island in 1854. The Senate then went into Executive Session, and spent the day over the case of premature publication of the treaty, and warrants were issued for the arrest of the witnesses who refuse to divulge the source from which they obtained the copy.

On the 17th on the opening of the Senate the President's answer to a resolution asking copies of the report of William Whiting, late Solicitor for the War Department, containing a list of claims of foreigners growing out of the war, was received. The report in question is embraced in thirty-five pages of a printed volume transmitted by the President; and it was ordered to be printed. The Senate then went into executive session. White and Ramsdell, the obstinate witnesses in the Treaty publication investigation were brought before the Senate under arrest. Mr. Carpenter offered a resolution that the Vice-President ask the witnesses what excuse they had to offer for not answering questions, and if they were prepared to answer the questions of the Committee. After debate, this was adopted, and the prisoners were granted until noon to prepare answers.

On the 18th the United States Senate spent the day in the examination of the cases of the contumacious witnesses who still refuse to answer Mr. Carpenter's questions.

On the 19th in the Senate some time was spent in explanations regarding the disclosure of the text of the treaty with England. Mr. Fenton and Mr. Morton repelled insinuations which had been thrown against themselves, and several Senators spoke in favor of an examination of each member of the body. After this discussion the day was spent in Executive Session on the treaty.

On the 20th the Senate spent some time in hearing personal explanations regarding the premature disclosure of the treaty lately submitted, but they brought out no new facts. The remainder of the day was spent in Executive Session.

Europe.

From the papers of the 16th we learn that a wide-spread conspiracy against Commune is said to exist in the city, and the garden of Luxemburg are occupied by troops in anticipation of a counter insurrection. The Times' special dispatch from Paris says M. Platt openly declares that the fall of the Commune is imminent. The National Guards decline to march and talk of opening the gates to the Versaillists. Gen Dombrowski's orders were not obeyed. The women of Paris have demanded arms to fight the Versaillists. M. Beeslay, called the "Father of the Commune," retired from a membership of that body because the residence of M. Thiers has been despoiled. Bonds of the City of Paris loan, to the amount of 750,000 francs, were recently stolen, and European banks were warned against negotiating them. A dispatch from Berlin gives some additional particulars of the treaty of peace just negotiated at Frankfort. The French are to restore all ships captured during the war or to refund their value in cases where the vessels have been sold. The Navigation Treaty of 1862 is to be maintained An official statement was made in the British House of Commons, yesterday, to the effect that no copy of the Treaty of Washington had been received by the Government. Mr. Disraeli postponed the question on the subject of which he had given notice. Mr. Gladstone said the treaty should be submitted to Parliament as soon as received. In the House of Lords Earl Russell announced his intention to move an address against the ratification, should the sreaty bind the arbitrators by rules other than the laws existing when the depredations were committed.

From the papers of the 17th we learn that Gen. Cluseret and M. Megy have been released. An armistice has been arranged for to-day, to enable the inhabitants of Vanvres and its neighborhood to move. The Germans are concentrating their forces toward Paris. The western arrondissements of Paris are uninhabitable. The One Hundred and forty-fourth Battalion of the National Guard has refused to march outside of Paris. A motion declaring the Republic permanent was referred, in the Assembly yesterday, to a committee, while a motion for the rebuilding of M. Thiers' residence in Paris at the public cost was voted to be urgent. M. Grevy has been re-elected President of the Assembly. In the British House of Commons yesterday, a motion declaring the inexpediency of continuing the Force bill for Ireland, operative after the original limitation, was discussed. Miss Burdett Coutts has accepted a peerage. The German Parliament has forbidden the arising of loans by means of lotteries.

From the papers of the 18 we learn that a terrific explosion in Paris last evening near the Avenue du Trocadero, is believed to have been caused by the fallling of a shell in a powder magazine. The Auteuil and Versailles gates of the city have been destroyed, and the neighboring bastions silenced. The fire of the Versaillists is described as terrific. The Versaillist parallels have been advanced until they are now only 100 metres from the ramparts of Paris. The troops in the trenches are greatly disturbed by the fire of the insurgents. Gen Cluseret advises the Committee of Safety to cause the erection of three lines of barricades. The Committee of Public Safety has by decree associated Civil Commissioners with all the Generals of the Commune, in order, it is said, to prevent all danger of a dictatorship. An important minority of the Commune has protested against the continued existence of the Committee of Safety. The Siecle, National, Avenir National, Journal de Paris. Corsaire and Discussion have been suppressed. Several persons were injured by the fall of the Column Vendome. The Column fell in three pieces. The square in which it stood will henceferth be known as the Place Internationale. The Spanish budget is satisfactory. Florence is to be compensated for the removal of the capital to Rhome. Turkey does not desire a convention with Rome.

From the papers of the 19th we learn that the Versailles forces are intrenching themselves within 200 yards of the Auteuil Gate of Paris, which, though much battered, is not weak enough to be assaulted. Montrouge responds feebly to the fire of the Versaillists. The bombardment is incessant. The Germans are said to be taking possession of many commanding positions, with the intent to attack the east side of Paris. The official journal of Versailles ascribes the delay of the Government to the desire to spare the innocent portion of the inhabitants. The Commune has resolved to form a central club of women, for the purpose of disarming runaways. There is great agitation among the pearl, and distrus of the Commune grows universal. Arrests are becoming general. MM. Clement and Brunel. of the Commune, have been arrested. A body of 10,000 insurgents attempted, on Tuesday, to surprise the Government forces at Neuilly, but were repulsed. Another attack was made on Wednesday on the same position, but with little result. Heavy columns of troops were near Passy yesterday for a battle. The number of persons killed by the explosion in the avenue du Trocadero is estimated at from 50 to 200. The Assembly has adopted entire the Treaty of Frankfort. Gen. Chazy objected during the debate to the territorial exchange, but M. Thiers and Gen. Ducrot insisted on the advantage of retraining and strengthening Belfort.

From the papers of the 20th but little from Paris. Several more journals have been suppressed, including the Revue des Deux Mondes. The Committee of Safety express their determination to raze the city rather than surrender, and the reports speak of the state of affairs as a "reign of terror." Meantime the forces of the Versailles Government seem to be gradually drawing closer about the capitol, and their flag now floats on Fort Vanvres.

Bismarck has started for Frankfort to meet M. Favre for an exchange of the ratifications of the late treaty. The Duke of Edinborough has arrived in England from his trip round the world. Fifty thousand Turkish troops have been concentrated on the road from Constantinople to Wallachia.

From the papers of the 22nd we learn that Paris was entered at two points at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon by the forces of the Assembly, the insurgents abandoning the ramparts. On Saturday the Communists abandoned several small places in the suburbs of Paris, returning to the city, in a state of disorder. Breaching batteries on the slope of Fort de Mont Valerien had opened on the ramparts, and everything was in readiness for the storming of the city. The Central Committee, on Saturday, threatened to confiscate the Government securities (rentes) of absent Parisians, unless they returned to their domiciles within forty-eight hours. G. Pyatt proposed, in the Commune, that bachelors be taxed, and the confessional be abolished. President Thiers has officially announced the success of the Versailles forces, and a terrible bombardment is in progress all along the line.

An Appeal to the People of the State by the Governor of North Carolina.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, RALEIGH, NORTH CAROLINA, 15th May, 1871. Whereas, repeated complaints have been made to me, and are now being made almost daily, by private citizens, by Judges, by Solicitors and by other officers whose province it is to see the civil law faithfully executed, that armed bands of disguised men have been, and still are prowling about in some of the counties of our State, and in the night time, committing outrages of the most atrocious character upon weak and defenceless citizens, white and colored, old and young, male and female; and whereas, the civil authorities have thus far been unable to detect and bring to justice, the cowardly perpetrators of these fiendish and inhuman outrages—Judges acknowledging themselves powerless to suppress the evil on account of "the secrecy, disguises and perjury" with which the guilty parties cover up their iniquities—victims knowing their oppressors, fearing to complain lest they be again visited, and more cruelly scourged, or even put to death; and, whereas, this horrid state of affairs must have an end; peace and harmony must be restored in North Carolina; crime must be repressed; life, liberty and property must be protected; the humble, the poor and the helpless, as well as the rich and powerful, must be made to feel secure in every section of our State. The good name of North Carolina must be vindicated, and law and order must prevail in all her borders. Now, therefore, in view of the premises, I, Tod R. Caldwell, Governor of the State, do make this, my solemn appeal to all the people, more especially to those who have heretofore held places of honor and trust, to assist the constituted authorities of the State in maintaining the supremacy of the law; and I invoke the ministers of the Gospel of every denomination, to give their powerful aid from their respective pulpits and places of worship, to put down crime and build up a feeling of fraternal love and forbearance in our suffering State.

And now, in due time, I warn all secret, unlawful societies and combinations, to dissolve their organizations; to cease from their cruel and illegal outrages, and to devote themselves to the peaceful and useful avocations of life; and I notify all offenders that if this appeal is not heeded, and if they persist in setting all law and decency at defiance, and will have no mercy upon their helpless victims, that the day may not be distant, when they themselves will entreat for mercy in vain.

TOD R. CALDWELL,
Governor.

Against the Proposed Convention.

J. Edwin Moore, Esq., of Martin county, a strong conservative, and one of the foremost lawyers of his age in the State, formerly a law partner of Judge Biggs, has declared himself in opposition to the proposed convention on the ground of its unconstitutionality. Nor does Mr. Moore stand alone in that opinion among the able Conservative lawyers of the State. W. N. H. Smith, Edward Conigland, N. W. Woodfin, Daniel G. Fowle, R. Tyler Bennett and J. M. McCorkle are of the same opinion, as is also Joseph B. Batchelor, as we have been informed. These names present an array of legal talent that cannot fail to command universal respect. With the opinion of these eminent legal gentlemen, and all the Judges in the State agreeing with them, no one will question, it is presumed, that the constitutionality of the present law is, to say the least of it, doubtful. A doubtful constitutional remedy (secession) was tried by the Southern people in 1860-61, with what result we all know. Will it be wise policy in us to resort to another such remedy before the angry passions aroused in the nation by that attempted in 1860-61 have subsided? Will it not be better to endure for a brief period some of the evils under which we are laboring—for the greatest, that of the debt and taxation, can be remedied without a Convention—than to come again into collision with the Federal Government while the Radicals have possession of it.—Old North State.

The statue of Abraham Lincoln, intended for Fairmount Park, Philadelphia, is now on its way to this country. The statue is of bronze, was sculptured by Rogers, and is valued at the sum of $30,000. It is to be placed on a granite pedestal, designed by Struttors. The entire structure will be thirty-three feet in height, conspicuously placed and visible both on entering and leaving the park.

A Wisconsin postmaster has written to Washington for "som eternal revenu stamps," saying he has "sevrel cols for them."

General Summary.

The ladies of Williamston, Martin county, are making laudable efforts to build a Baptist Church in that place.

The revised registration of Richmond, Va., shows a white majority of 951. The totals are: Whites, 6,565; colored, 5,614.

Ex-Gov. Coburn is Maine's richest man. His annual income is said to be over $70,000, and his property it estimated at $7,000,000.

A woman who had lived 105 years in Philadelphia died last week. How she survived the infliction so long is a mystery.

The New-Hampshire Legislature meets on the 7th of June, and we shall then know who is Governor.

A cat bit a cow in Nashville, Tenn., a few days ago, and the cow died "after the most excruiating sufferings," as the papers say.

A woman advertises in the Nashville papers for her children, saying that she has had twenty-seven, and knows the whereabouts of only three of them.

A Virginia paper tells a tough story of an otter chasing a flock of sheep, and turning to attack a full-grown man who came to their defense.

The Montgomery (Ala.) Journal endorses the Atlanta (Ga.) Era's nomination of Hon. Amos T. Akerman for Vice-President on the ticket with Grant.

The peach and apple crops of Haywood and Jackson counties have been nearly destroyed by the severe frost which recently visited that section.

Mr. William Clark, an Elder in Steel Creek church, Mecklenburg county, has thirty-four grandchildren and two great-grandchildren, all living.

The Wilmington Journal says that George Z. French has concluded to resign gn his seat as a member of tha Legislature from New Hanover county.

Edmund Ferrebee, a notorious desperado, and escaped jail-bird, was again arrested at Newbern, last week. His last escape was from Jones county jail.

The office of sheriff of Richmond county having become vacant, Mr John Shortride has been elected by the county commissioners to fill the vacancy.

Edward H. Rulloff was hanged on the 18th, in the yard of the Binghamton Jail, for the murder of Frederick A. Mirrick, on the 18th of August. He died with firmness.

On the 19th, a violent tornado and hail-storm passed over New-Kent County, Virginia, blowing down houses and trees, and destroying the crops in a belt a mile wide.

At a meeting of the female suffrage convention recently held in New York, Mrs. Victor M. Barringer, of North Carolina, was appointed one of the National Committee.

An Iowa man was divorced some years ago and went to California. His ex-wife has since been remarried and widowed. Her first husband returning home a few days ago, they met and married again.

Statistics show that there is about nine times as much coffee consumed in the United States as in Great Britain, and nearly three times as much tea consumed in Great Britain as in the United States.

On Monday last, says the Tarboro' Southerner, J. W. Davis was convicted of rape upon the person of Lucy Dancy, colored, and was senteneed to five years in the Penitentiary.

There were 8,092 births in Boston last year, 2,102 marriages, and 6,002 deaths. There was an excess of 224 males over females in the births, and an excess of 110 males in the deaths.

The new Government of the Territory of Columbia was inaugurated on the 15. Frederick Douglass was elected Vice-President of the Council. The debt of Georgetown is stated in the Governor's message to be $250,000, and that of Washington over $3,000,000.

The President is not given to slang; but when Commissioner Howe asked him, the other day, which one of the San Domingo party gave the most favorable account of the Island, Grart replied: "You know, Howe, it is yourself."

The local elections in Kentucky have resulted very satisfactorily to the Republicans. Several cities were wrested from the Democrats; and in others the Republican vote was largely increased. Lexington, Frankfort, Paris, Danville, Harrodsburg, and Nicholasville elected Republican officers.

A traveling correspondent of the Roanoke News, who has traveled extensively in the Eastern and Middle portions of the State within the last five weeks, gives it as his opinion that there will be at least one-third less cotton planted this season, in the sections alluded to, than last year.

During the present season, light-houses are to be constructed, under the direction of the engineers of the Light-House Board, as follows: Iron screw pile light-house on Lambert's Point shoal, at the mouth of Elizabeth river; and a first-order light-house on Body's Island, coast of North Carolina.

The Richmond Enquirer is very indignant because an "ex-colored" barber was prevented from making a Democratic speech in Virginia by some men, who, being still black, were perhaps indignant at his change of color. They should have permitted him to speak, however notwithstanding this.

Oil of peppermint is recommended by Dr. Alfred Wright, in a letter to the Lancet, as a remedy for facial neuralgia. He says that when in China he learned that the natives were in the hadit of using it, making the application to the seat of pain with a camel's-hair pencil; and since then he has used it in his own practice with good effect, in both gout and neuralgia, the relief being almost instantaneous.

MILLIONS Bear Testimony to their Wonderful Curative Effects. They are not a vile Fancy Drink, made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits and Refuse Liquors doctored, spiced and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true medicine, made from the native roots and herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER and a LIFE GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the System, carrying off all poisonous matter and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.

They are a Gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, possessing also, the peculiar merit of acting as a powerful agent in relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver, and all the Visceral Organs.

FOR FEMALE COMPLAINTS, whether in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood or at the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters have no equal.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.

DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Cough, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms are the offsprings of Dyspepsia.

They invigorate the Stomach and stimulate the torpid Liver and Bowels, which render them of unequaled efficacy in cleansing the blood of all impurities, and imparting new life and vigor to the whole system.

FOR SKIN DISEASES, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-worms, Scald Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the System in a short time by the use of these Bitters. One bottle in such cases will convince the most incredulous of their curative effects.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. Says a distinguished physiologist, there is scarcely an individual upon the face of the earth whose body is exempt from the presence of worms. It is not upon the healthy elements of the body that worms exist, but upon the diseased humors and slimy deposits that breed these living monsters of disease. No system of Medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelmintics, will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

Sold by all Druggists and Dealers.

THIS WEEK'S ADVERTISEMENTS.

We call attention to the following new advertisements in this issue

New York advertisements.
New Line.
Caution.
Internal Revenue Notice.
Cupid abroad.
Bankrupt Notice.

Local and Personal.

☞ Court in Camden next week.

☞ Court is still in session—the second week—as we go to press.

☞ The Methodist Protracted Meeting at this place is still in progress, attended with continued success.

☞ We call the attention of all parties interested to the notice of Collector BARROW.

☞ We are glad to see that our friend JOHN RUSSEL has returned from his Northern trip.

☞ A correspondent gives an account —see his letter—of the destruction, by fire, of JOSEPH SANDERS' coach makers shop at Newbegun, on Saturday last. We deeply sympathize with Mr. SANDERS.

☞ Kinder is the looking glass than the wine glass; for the former reveals our defects to ourselves only—the latter to our friends.

☞ We see that our townsman JOHN L. WOOD, Sheriff of our county, is not asleep on the improvement question. His neat new fence, his repairs to his house, and his use of the paint brush indicates his good taste.

☞ Among the Northern arrivals since our last we notice ARON EGOLF, from Landisburg, Pa., BENJAMIN HOSSLER and HENRY SNYDER, from Carlisle, Pa., FRED PAXSON from Philadelphia, and JOSEPH CANBY from Bucks, Pa.

☞ We learn that the gross receipts of the Baptist Fair amounted to near $800. Good. The proceeds are to be devoted to erecting a neat fence around their Burial Ground and repairing their Church.

☞ We are informed of some parties who have a habit, in church, as well as elsewhere, of keeping up a continual cooing to the thorough disgust of everybody about them. If they, like ARMAND and HELIOSE, think themselves consecrated to the "artful god" whose arrows have struck deep in their soft hearts, they should stay at home and enjoy their faith, and not parade it in public places.

☞ On Monday last JOHN U. LEIBY a farmer residing on one of Mr. HOLLOWELL'S farms near town, had some difficulty with one of his colored workmen, resulting in a personal altercation. The latter subsequently made threats of vengeance. The following night the torch was applied to one of the buildings containing Mr. LEIBYS' fodder, corn, bacon, &c., consuming them all. The colored man was arrested and is now in jail.

☞ A correspondent from Bertie county sends us an account of an attempt to break jail at Windsor, the county seat, on the 11th inst. The prisoner, a colored man named HENRY LIVERMAN, over powered the Jailor and got out, but through the energy of the Sheriff he was recaptured. Our correspondent speaks in terms of praise of the efficiency of the Sheriff of that county.

☞ The best way to build up a town is for every business man in the place to advertise his business in the columns of the local paper, and thus present an array of business houses equal to the number of houses on the street. It draws trade to the town, draws emigrants to the town, draws produce to the town, draws money to the town. If a man wants to buy anything, he goes where he sees the most men trying to sell that article. If he wants to sell anything, he goes where the most men are buying. If a man wants to buy groceries or sell produce, he goes to the business man that advertises, for he knows where to find him and what he has to sell.

☞ We hear a general complaint of a failure of the Wheat crop in this section, the late infavorable weather having injured it. Now our observation fully satisfies us that this need not have been so,—that it is not the fault of the soil, climate or season so much as of the farming. The ground was not properly plowed, there were neither clover nor manure used, and the seed was sown too late. We know of several fields of wheat, farmed as the Northern wheat growers farm, that are equal to any we have seen in any country. The ground was well plowed and well manured, and the seed was sown in good time, early in November. We allude to this because it demonstrates that wheat can be raised here with as good success as anywhere else.

☞ We have refrained from noticing or replying to any of the flings and innuendoes indulged in by certain papers in this State and certain speakers in this District against the North because we know the animus prompting it is not sympathized in nor the sentiment endorsed by the better class of any party here. It may do for "aristocrats"—those restless politicians who would block the wheels of progress in order to benefit their party, but it won't aid in the great work of development and advancement which every true friend of the old North State is so anxious to see go on. We have paid no attention to these unseemly aspersions, not because we are not abundantly prepared to turn the tables on their indiscreet authors, but because we have resolved to use our entire influence toward obliterating all the bitterness of the past and of inaugurating and establishing a fraternal feeling between the North and the South. Though not born an "aristocrat," we claim to be a gentleman, and while we may occasionally indulge in the satire and adjectives legitimate to honorable journalism, we scorn to resort to offensive personalities and vulgar abuse.

☞ We were glad to see our friend A. E. JACOBS in town this week.

☞ We acknowledge the receipt, from our kind friend GEO. D. POOL Jr., of a basket of very fine potatoes.

☞ By notice elsewhere it will be seen that the time of starting of the Steamers for Norfolk has been changed to 5 o'clock instead of 6. This gives more time in Norfolk.

☞ A colored man of Camden having left with another man's horse, was arrested at Norfolk. On bringing him over on the Boat one day last week, he escaped the officer by springing into a passing Lighter and from thence to the opposite bank of the Canal, fleeing into the woods. In the evening he recrossed the Canal and was seen by some men who arrested him and brought him to this place. He was taken to Camden and lodged in jail to await his trial.

☞ Scarce a week passes but some one having property to sell—houses, farms, timber tracts—asks us to find them a purchaser, offering to compensate us liberally for doing so. We have respectfully declined all these propositions, and we must continue to do so. We are not in the real estate business. We are not working for commissions. We have resolved to occupy a position enabling us to write honestly and truthfully about this country, uninfluenced by the temptations of mercenary considerations. Hence we cannot agree—no matter how liberal the percentage offered—to have any personal or pecuniary interest in the sale of any man's property. We have a large Northern circulation. Our advertising rates are liberal. Those wishing to sell can, through our paper and in a legitimate business way, reach the very class wishing to buy. We want to see those people here. They will be benefited, and they will help us by developing, improving and advancing this country. Further than this we have no interest in their coming. That we have faith—are in earnest, is proven by the fact of our locating here and investing largely in property and business, increasing both from year to year. This is our answer to those writing us on the subject.

BEYOND A DOUBT.—More diseases are the result of the derangement of the Liver than from any other cause. When that organ is diseased, every part of the system sympathises with it, and general prostration and decline is the result. The best, safest and speediest remedy for Liver Complaint and all the diseases that follow, is Tutt's Vegetable Liver Pills, they are peculiarly adapted to the climate of the South. They are sold by Druggist everywhere.

MORE VALUABLE THAN TREASURY NOTES.—How that old cynic, Sam Johnson, would have revelled through Webster's massive new Unabridged! How he would have gloated over its magnificent letterpress and its illustrations, beautiful as new Treasury Notes, and much more valuable to the student. The Merriams have incurred a fabulous expense in having the whole work rewritten, reset, recast, and republished. It is not a mere revision, but a reconstruction. To insure excellence in typography, it comes from the Riverside Press, which is all that need be said about its mechanical execution. It is a marvellous specimen of learning, labor, research, and taste. It is by far the greatest literary work of the age.—Baltimore American

In the fortnight since our last report the receipts of Corn have been moderate, only about 26,000 Bushels, and a steady demand has relieved the stock of all excess, placing it under good control of holders. The market, in better tone, we quote firm at 89@90c., bulk by recent sales of good white.

The Steamers of the Line between Elizabeth City and Norfolk will leave their wharf at this place one hour earlier than heretofore.—at 5 o'clock instead of six.

Mr. MAGEE will commence delivering Ice on Monday next, May 29th. Parties wishing Ice will confer a favor by informing him at once.

The time of starting of the Steamer for Norfolk has been changed to 5 o'clock. Let all interested take notice.

Guilford county boasts of a youth eighteen years of age, who measures 6 feet and 7 inches, and still growing:

The Rev. Amos Foster of Putney, Vt., is said to be the oldest, or about the oldest, clergyman in the State in active service. He has spent 45 years in the ministry, and now, at the age of 74, is hale and vigorous.

A desk Benjamin Franklin is supposed to have learned to write on was put up at auction in Newport, R. I., a few days since, and on account of the reverence felt for the economical memory of Poor Richard it was knocked down for the princely sum of 10 cents.

Horace W. Newcomb, said to be the wealthiest citizen of Louisville, and occupying a high social position there, has recently obtained a divorce from his wife, who has been for 15 years an inmate of insane asylum in Massachusetts—reported to be the first divorce for such cause ever granted in Kentucky.

The venerable Jacob Barker, once so well known as a Quaker merchant in New York, and subsequently as a banker in New Orleans, is now spending his declining years in Philadelphia. He resides on Spruce street with his son Abram, who surrounds him with every comfort which wealth can command. Jacob Barker is now in his ninety-second year, having been born in 1778, on Swan Island, at the mouth of the Kennebec River, in the State of Maine.

One of the Chicago editors, having exhausted all ordinary invective upon a rival editor, finally seeks to extinguish him by declaring him to have been a member of a concert troupe and a public singer on the stage. The denounced journalist, refusing to be crushed by such a torrent of obloquy, replies that he never denied the fact; that he was at least an honest member of the troupe and a good singer, which is much more than the other man can truthfully say of himself in his present calling.

Advices from Mexico to May 12 represent revolution to be active at several points, and latent everywhere, and requiring only the announcement of the name of the successful candidate for the Presidency to become active in the interest of the defeated aspirant. President Juarez is said to be using the national treasury to promote his election, while Lerdo is freely using his private fortune to accomplish his own election.

Temperature of Elizabeth City.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Travellers are always liable to sudden attacks of Dysentery and Cholera morbus, and these occurring when absent from home, are very unpleasant. The Pain Killer may always be relied upon in such cases. As soon as you feel the symptoms, take one teaspoonful in a gill of new milk and molasses and a gill of hot water stir well together and drink hot. Repeat the dose every hour until relieved. If the pains be severe, bathe the bowels and back with the medicine clear.

Dr. Sweet says it takes out the soreness in cases of bonesetting faster than any thing he ever applied.

Fishermen so often exposed to hurts by having their skin pierced with hooks, and fins of fish can be relieved by bathing with the Pain Killer as soon as the accident occurs; in this way the anguish is soon abated; bathe as often as once in five minutes, say three or four times, and you will seldom have any trouble.

The bites and scratches of dogs and cats are soon cured by bathing with the Pain Killer clear, 45-4t.

MARRIAGE GUIDE.—Every one his own Doctor. A private instructor for married persons or those about to be married, both male and female, in everything concerning the physiology and relations of our sexual system, and the production and prevention of offspring, including all the new discoveries never before given in the English language, by Wm. Young, M.D. This is really a valuable and interesting work. It is written in plain language for the general reader, and is illustrated with numerous engravings. All young married people, or those contemplating marriage, and having the least impediment to married life, should read this book. It discloses secrets that every one should be acquainted with; still it is a book that must be locked up and not lie about the house. It will be sent to any address on receipt of 50 cts. Address Dr. Wm. Young, No. 416 Spruce Street above Fourth, Philadelphia. 19—6m.

A LECTURE.

TO YOUNG MEN.

Just Published, in a sealed envelope Price six cents. A Lecture on the Nature, Treatment and Radical Cure of Spermatorrhœa, or Seminal Weakness, Involuntary Emissions, Sexual Debility, and Impediment to Marriage generally; Nervousness, Consumption, Epilepsy, and Fits; Mental and Physical Incapacity, resulting from Self-Abuse, &c.—By ROBERT J. CULVERWELL, M. D., Author of the "Green Book," &c.

The world-renouned author, in this admirable Lecture, clearly proves from his own experience that the awful consequences of Self-Abuse may be effectually removed without medicines, and without dangerous surgical operations, bougies, instruments, rings or cordials, pointing out a mode of cure at once certain and effectual by which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately, and radically. This Lecture will prove a boon to thousands and thousands.

Sent under seal, to any address, in a plain sealed envelope, on the receipt of six cents, or two postage stamps. Also Dr. Culverwell's "Marriage Guide," price 25 cents. Address the Publishers,

NOTICE IN BANKRUPTCY.

District Court of the United States, } In Bankruptcy.
For the Albemarle District.

In the matter of C. B. Corbet, a Bankrupt

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN. That a petition has been filed in said court by C. B. Corbet, of Halifax county, and State of North Carolina, in said district, duly declared a bankrupt under the act of Congress of March 2d, 1867, for a discharge and certificate thereof from all his debts and other claims provable under said act, and that the 5th day of May 1871, at 10 o'clock, A. AGRICULTURAL, HORTICULTURAL AND DOMESTIC MATTERS.

On the Cultivation of Barley.

If justice is done to the crop in preparation of the soil, and the supply of the proper kinds and quantities of manure, twenty-five to forty bushels per acre can be raised on a moderately moist soil that is light, pliable and mellow. It is considered by good farmers, where it is raised largely in some of the States, to be better adapted to being seeded to clover or grass seeds than is oats. The stock on the farm relish the straw if it is harvested before the seed gets dead ripe. The grain invariable finds a good price, and for the purposes of the breweries should be more largely cultivated than it is in this vicinity. The importation of barley is very great into the United States the foreign grown being considered as containing more of the valuable properties suitable for the malt than that grown in this country; but a large portion of that produced here is mixed with the stronger grains of Europe.

Barley should be got in as early in the season as the condition of the soil and weather will admit, and the land should be prepared for the reception of the seed by thorough working and by liberal application of rich manure. If the soil is inclined to sand, the application of the roller after sowing is of much advantage. If the seeds is rolled in a weak solution of salt and water, or with urine, the germination is very greatly facilitated, and more vigor is given to the plants. The manures heretofore recommended for oats and corn, and in the average quantities per acre there in given, will answer for barley. The manure being broadcasted plowed in, and the ground harrowed lengthwise the furrows and rolled, sow the barley, using two bushels per acre, and then harrow and cross harrow, and then roll as above. The earlier then roll as above. The earlier the better the yield, the crop is go[illegible] care being taken to avoid the danger of the land being too wet.

Plan for Raising Water-Melons.

As I am very successful raising watermelons, I thought I would send my plan. The spot of ground that you expect to plant, prepare well early in the spring, deep: the first of April lay off by plowing eight feet apart each way, dig your hills eight feet apart each way, dig out holes two feet deep, two feet square; in each hole put half peck rotted cotton seed, half peck hog-pen manure, and a tablespoonful of salt; mix well with a hoe adding soil until you get the hole full up to three inches from the surface, then draw on light loose dirt until you get it level; do not elevate, for by so doing, you cause them to die out when summer comes; draw your hoe around to form a furrow; plant half dozen seed in a hill—soon as up, thin out to four; second hoeing thin two. Continue to hoe them every four or five days, and just before the vines start to run, side with a plow, first one way then the other; plow out first one way, then the other—I mean cross-plowing. In about ten days give another plowing and hoeing. Continue to keep the ground loose just as long as you can do so without injuring the vines, for in no case should they be moved. Drive little sticks across the vines thus: X, to keep the wind from blowing them about. By the above plan, I have gathered over one thousand melons from half acre of ground, some weighing over 40 lbs.—Cor. Southern Cultivator.

The Man or the Land.

A correspondent sends us the following result of the cultivation of two fields of corn, and from the result argues that brains has as much to do with success as the soil. Everything else being equal, brains certainly will triumph; and it not unfrequently happens that brains on poor soil will produce more than good soil without brains. The use of more brains on our soil generally will secure greater results:

"It is the man, not the land, that makes the corn. I have two fields lying side by side cultivated by two men. I went through them both last week. The first field was small, much of it light, and will only be fit for fodder; there may be fifteen or twenty bushels of corn per acre. The other is very heavy, being higher than a man's head, well cared and filled to the ends of the cob. The ears are nearly as high as the corn in the other field.

"The first field was plowed shallow, the corn put in carelessly, and cultivated badly. The first cultivating left a block a foot square, so that the corn might not be disturbed. The second field was plowed deep, cultivated closely, and but a few weeds remained. It will yield twice as much as the other; yet as much time was spent on the first field. It is in the man more than the field. The man's brains make the corn."—Homestead.

Lucerne.

Lucerne makes the earliest green feed that can be had, and happy is he who has a little lot of it from which to cut for his cattle and working stock. Few persons in this section have ever sown it, or seen it, but for all that, it is richly worth what it cost. From the middle of March to the first of July it yields bountifully the sweetest and richest green and may be cut over close to the ground four or six times. Once established in good soil it will last for twenty years or more with the least possible attention.

Don't try it unless you have rich ground, plenty of manure, and will plough deep and pulverize. Its roots are large and go deep. Drill the seed shallow, ten pounds per acre, cover lightly, and keep it reasonably free from weeds and grass especially while young.

Sow any time from middle of January to middle of March. No plant or grass can grow repeated crops of luxuriant green, without rich and deep soil to draw from. Lucerne comes earlier, and is most grateful and beneficial to all sorts of stock that have passed the winter on dry forage. For horses and mules it is a capital alterative, and brings on a new coat of hair very finely. For milch cows and brood sows it pays in the abundance of rich milk.

Lucerne is of the clover tribe and likes or lime soil, but proper manuring will secure a profit from it on even very light sand.—Banner of the South.

J. B. Carpenter, the Clerk of the Superior Court of Rutherford county, makes affidavit that not less than fifty persons, white and colored, men and women, have been whipped and scourged within thirty days, by masked and disguised men in that Senatorial District. Old men and crippled, 75 or 80 years of age among them—one old man has since died of the brutal violence he suffered. The crime is that these people, during the war, were Union adherents and are now Republicans. This is the testimony of the Star and the Pioneer papers of that region.

"Any soap-grease to-day, ma'am?" "No, sir; I use my own soap-grease." "Make your own soap?" "No, sir." "How do you use your own soap-grease, then?" "I make it into eggs," I said, smiling. The man looked so astonished and half frightened that I thought it time to explain. "I feed the grease and fat which is unfit for cooking to the chickens."

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE.

OF VALUABLE

NORTH CAROLINA LANDS,

FOR SALE BY

GEORGE D. POOL.

Real Estate Agent,

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C.

In presenting my list of lands and other properties for sale, I would say that no section of the United States offers such inducements for capitalists and emigrants, as this section of North Carolina. In longevity and healthfulness, it will compare favorably with any where; and in easy and cheap transportation of products to market, in pleasantness of climate, in the sociability of the people, in great fertility, and durability of soil, no section can equal it.

A railroad will soon be built to Weldon, putting this place in direct communication by Rail, with the whole United States. This, together with our great fishing, farming and manufacturing interests, and certain early completion of already projected works of improvement for putting in nearer, cheaper and easier communication with the Ocean, will render this one of the most important commercial, and manufacturing points on the Southern country.

A Steam Saw and Grist Mill in the town of Nixonton 8 miles from E. City. This Mill has a fine wharf and store attached on deep navigable water, the engine is 40 horse power, and all in good order. It is one of the finest locations to be found any where for custom work, and for getting good saw logs easily and cheaply. Price $4,000 cash.

Adjoining the mill property is 40 acres of fine land on the River, with three houses, all for $1200. Near the same is a good two story dwelling and 13 acres of land for $2,000, and a good one story dwelling, with one acre of land for $300.

Also two fine farms in Pasquotauk county, 10 miles from E. City, within half mile of church, school house and post office. One tract contains about 400 acres, with fair buildings and mostly cleared, and the other contains 300 acres, with good two story dwelling, large barn, and other outhouses, both are offered at $20 per acre, one third cash, balance in one and two years.

Also one other tract in Pasquotank county, containing 116 acres, within one mile of the town with fine buildings, mostly cleared and in cultivation. Price $25 per acre, one half cash, balance in 12 months.

A valuable site for a hotel at Nag's Head, 40 miles from Elizabeth City, and 50 miles from Edenton. This is situated immediately on the Ocean, and is a famous Summer resort for invalids, and those seeking health, comfort, and amusements during the summer months. It is in direct communication by steamboats and railroad with all parts of North Carolina, Virginia, and the North; and is equal in natural advantages to Newport, or Cape May. Visitors flock to this famous summer resort by hundreds and thousands, and a large amount of money can be made by a hotel. A charter has been obtained from the Legislature of N. C., for a joint stock company to build the hotel. There is now an old hotel on the spot, which could be cheaply repaired and bought for $3,000. This hotel, though imperfectly kept, cleared the proprietor last season, over $3,000. For a man or a company, having some capital, this is one of the finest chances to make money at hotel keeping to be found anywhere. The early attention of the public is invited to this property.

A fine steam saw and grist mill at Hertford, the county seat of Perquimans County, N. C., 18 miles from Elizabeth City. This mill has a fifty horse power engine, now in good running, two pairs of best French burr stones, and two upright saws. The house has a brick basement, and the building is large and in good order. There is one and a half acres of land belonging to this property, and a good two story dwelling, and other out-houses. The section of country adjacent abounds in the finest yellow pine, cypress, ash, poplar, and other valuable timber. This property originally cost $15,000, and is now offered at forced sale for the low price of $3.500, $7.00, cash, and the balance in six equal instalments, six months apart each with interest.

A fine farm and fishery in same county. The farm contains 400 acres of the finest land, lies immediately on Albemarle Sound where the water is 12 miles wide, and 18 to 20 feet deep, has got buildings, and fine neighborhood. The fishery is on the farm and goes with it. It has a new seine 2,500 yards long, and all the necessary boats, buildings, &c., (which cost over $15,000 two years ago.) The fishery alone, of a good season, will make from 5 to $10,000 profit to the owner. This property is offered at forced sale for the low price of $20,000, $7,000 cash, balance on easy times.

A store at South Mills, in Camden county, 20 miles from E. City, and 20 miles from Norfolk, lying on the canal where steamers pass daily. A fine chance for merchandize. Store is large with dwelling above containing six rooms, is in first rate order, has office, kitchen, dairy, and other necessary outhouses. Goods to the amt. of $50,000 per annum can be sold here, and at large profits. A splended stand for a country retail store. Price $2,500—one third cash, balance in one and two years.

A valuable tract of land in Camden county, at South Mills, on the Dismal Swamp Canal, lying on the canal for two miles, containing over 900 acres of land—two-thirds cleared, and in a fine state of cultivation, with good buildings, &c.; balance in valuable timber. Price $12,000, one-third cash, balance in one and two years, interest from January, 1871. This is a valuable farm for corn, wheat, and vegetables, and being midway between Elizabeth City and Norfolk, and located where steamers pass by the door daily, is a desirable and cheap property.

A fine farm of 600 acres within six miles of E. City, one mile from navigable water, and the best cotton farm in the State. It is also well adapted to raising corn and wheat. This farm has a splended two-story dwelling upon it, large barn, 40 by 60 feet, a large number of outhouses, by splended trees and shrubbery, is in a strong Union neighborhood, and altogether the most desirable place in the county. A little over one-half of this land is cleared, and the balance is covered with the finest yellow pine, popler, ash and other timber. Price $30 per acre—one-third cash, balance in one and two years with interest. Title reserved.

A valuable small farm 1 of a mile from E. City, containing about 47 acres all cleared but about 6 acres, and in a good state of improvement. Lies high, well drained, medium buildings, a good well of water. A very desirable property. Price $50 per acre in payments. Possession given Jan'y. 1st 1871.

Sixteen houses and lots in Elizabeth City, with good dwellings, out-houses, &c. Prices and terms reasonable.

A valuable farm in Perquimans county, N. C. near navigable water. Has a fine dwelling-house with ten rooms, in splended order, with splended barns and stables—all in first rate order. The farm is very productive in corn, oats, wheat, cotton and clover. It is one of the finest farms in the State and is now in good cultivation, contains 585 acres of land, about three-fourths cleared and under cultivation. Price $10,000, one-third cash January 1, next balance in two equal annual instalments with interest at the rate of six per cent.

A farm of 370 acres 8 miles from town by water, and 12 miles by land, is offered for sale for $10,000 in easy payments. This tract of land lies immediately on the River which is 4 miles wide and washes the farm its whole length on one side, and a branch of the River one mile wide, binds it on one end. The land is well adapted to raising corn, wheat, cotton, oats, peas, &c., lies high and dry, and is susceptible of the highest improvement. Fronting and looking over, as it does, two large sheets of navigable water, where steamers and sailing vessels are constantly passing, carrying freight and passengers to all parts of the country, its location and surroundings, are of the most fascinating and desirable character. There is a fishery on it ready for working a seine 2,500 yards long, and which commands a portion of both streams of water, and can be made immensely profitable. The price charged is low, and the purchase a very desirable one. The buildings consist of a good two-story dwelling and out-houses.

A tract of valuable land, containing 355 acres, with fine two story dwelling containing 9 rooms and cook-room. Servant's house with 3 rooms, large barns and stables, all necessary and convenient out-houses, 3 tenant-houses near town, and immediately on the River. About 100 acres of this land is in fine wood and timber, balance in a fine state of cultivation. It has 8,000 grape vines one year old, 3,500 peach, apple and dwarf pear trees, five acres in strawberries which yielded an immence profit this year, ten acres in Lawton and other rare varieties of black-berries, 15 to 20,000 young peach trees with other choice fruits too numerous to mention. This farm has a public road on one side, and the River on the other, where strangers come daily to the landings to receive the fruits and vegetables, and carry them down to Norfolk, Baltimore, Phila., or New York. The land is finely adapted to raising corn, wheat, cotton, oats, and all other field crops.

The owner of this farm offers to sell in tracts, to suit purchasers, say in 50 to 100 acre tracts, and at prices ranging from 35 to $80 per acre, according to location, buildings, &c.

There is also on this farm a fine fishery, where a seine 1,000 yards long, and 20 feet deep is hauled every Spring. Herring, Shad, Rock-fish, Sturgeon and other valuable fish, are caught by thousands at every draw of the seine. And the profits are frequently large. This shery of itself is worth nearly as much as is harged for the whole property. The terms will be liberal. This is probably the finest opportunity offered any where for a profitable investment.

☞ Fishery has an office, and two houses for hands besides fish house. Then some 500 to 1,000 loads of best fish manure on hand, besides over 5,000 loads of compost made ready for use. This goes with the farm.

A desirable house and lot in the town of Elizabeth City on the corner of two principal streets, the principal one, and situated in the best business locality in the town. The lot contains about two acres of land, and the buildings consist of a fair dwelling three stories high, containing eight rooms, all in good order, another two story building with four rooms and pantries, dairy, smokehouses, stables, &c. The dwelling has a good cellar under it. There is room on the front lot to erect two good stores, and they would occupy the best stand in the town for merchandize.

Another valuable tract of land in Pasquotank county one mile from the town, on the river, and containing 156 acres. Good dwelling house and other outbuildings. Land fine. About 120 acres cleared, balance in wood and timber. This farm is surrounded by parties from the North who have purchased all the land adjoining. Price $35,00 per acre, one half cash, balance in 12 and 18 months with interest.

BONE DUST.—

The subscriber has just erected at his Farm, near the city, the most improved machinery for making BONE DUST, and is now ready to fill orders for any quantity, which will be delivered at the shortest notice.

The BONE DUST will be finer than any heretofore made by him, (no chemical process resorted to,) enabling the Farmer or Planter to sow it with a Drill.

Mr. Samuel Sands, well known to the Farmers and Planters of the United States as the former Editor of the "American Farmer and Rural Register," will have charge of his office, NO. 63 S. GAY STREET, near Pratt, and will be happy to receive the visits or orders of his old friends.

$45 per ton, put in new bags. No charge for bags.

Farmers and others are invited to visit my works. I have nothing to conceal.

My men have nothing nice to perform, therefore I have no "non-admittance" signs on my premises. Persons are free to examine my factory, and the modus operandi of Dust making.

I cannot afford to pay 5, 10 or 20 per cent. to commission merchants, as my profits do not exceed 10 per cent.

Bone Dust, as manufacured by me, is A simple, and its quality cannot be made to conform to the price.

LAND AND LUMBER COMPANY

OF

NORTH CAROLINA.

Incorporated by the Legislature of North Carolina, December 17, 1868.

CAPITAL STOCK - - - - $300,000,00.

General Office: Elizabeth City, N. C.

OFFICERS

DIRECTORS

J. M. WEED, WM. UNDERWOOD, CHARLES W. SMITH, N. R. ZIMMERMAN AND G. B. THOMPSON.

TO THE PUBLIC.

THE LAND AND LUMBER COMPANY having a large amount of Real Estate of their own to dispose of, and their business having increased to such an extent, they think it prudent to decline acting further as Commission Agents for the sale of lands belonging to others. They will however be glad at all times to furnish every facility to parties coming to Elizabeth City with a desire to look at the country and make purchases if they find it to their interest to do so.

The following list of property, owned by the Company, is offered for sale on the most reasonable terms. Their object now is to acquire a larger monied capital for the purpose of further developing their unimproved lands and carrying out their original design of increasing the Commerce and General Trade of Elizabeth City.

As there are others in the Commission Business, parties are referred to their advertisement for further information.

ELIZABETH CITY.

The following desirable list of Properties in Elizabeth City are offered at very reduced prices for cash or on time payments at rates which make any of them excellent investments for capitalists. We feel confident that this City is destined to become a large place and property will advance rapidly. Emigration is now tending Southernward and the feeling is in universal favor toward Elizabeth City.

A large two-story dwelling known as the Parsonage, with fine double Piazza, front and back, large out kitchen, stables, carriage house, with 17 acres of ground well enclosed. This ground is all within the corporation of the City, and is well situated to lay out in building lots and make out of it ten fold the price asked for it.

A two-story dwelling containing ten rooms, 10,000 gallon cistern and all necessary out-houses, with large lot. Situated on Main Street. A Vacant Lot no better located and not so large as this was sold recently for $1600 cash.

A large brick store house and wharf situate on Water street; in E. City, co nprising three lots with 400 feet of water front, permanently wharfed for the accommodation of large vessels. There is erected on these lots a large two-story brick building, 50 by 80 feet, well fitted up for a wholesale or retail trade at present occupied by the "Yankee Store."

A large wood store on west side of Water street 36 by 60, two stories high, being one of the best stands on Water street for merchandizing.

A House and Lot on Riverside Avenue. House 20ft front by 50 ft deep. Containing eight rooms with Pantry and Cellar, all well finished, modern style, and having all necessary out buildings. The lot contains a front of 400 ft, and would be a good location for a large shop or foundry as one whole side fronts on the water.

Also a large number of Wharf Lots, Mill Lots and Vacant Lots at very low prices, some of which are enumerated below. The Wharf Lots are 200ft deep and will be sold to any size desired along the River. Among them are some most eligible situations for Store Houses, Mills and Manufactories of any kind as there is a fine harbor immediately in front of them, having 30ft of water, sufficient for vessels of any capacity. Along Pennsylvania Avenue are offered some of the finest and choicest lots, for dwellings in town at prices varying according to location. This will be the finest street in town, is 80 feet wide, size of Lot 100ft front by 200ft deep. There are now a number of first class residences being erected on this street. Immediately in the nicinity of these Lots the Company have erected a large Planing Mill, Sash, Blind and Door Factory at a cost of near $20,000 and also their Saw Mill at a cost of near $15,000. That now is the proper time to invest in those Lots there can be no doubt, as they will double in value in a very short time. Lots not near so good as these, are now selling in other parts of the City at more than double the price asked for these.

VACANT LOTS.

Lots Nos. 150, 155, 158, 161, 163, 165, 167, 170. 172. 175, 178, 180, 182. 185, 187. 190' 193, 195, 198 and 200, situate on Pennsylvania avenue, in the new extension of Elizabeth City, all choice lots, intended for the better class of residences. Size of lots 100 feet front by 200 feet deep. Price varying, according to location, from $100 to $1000.

TOWN LOTS.

Lots Nos. 250, 253, 255, 256, 258, 261, 263, 266, 267, 268, 271, 283, 285, 287, 288, 289, 291, 296, 299 and 300, situated on various Streets in the new extension of Elizabeth City, size of lots 50 feet front by 100 feet deep, at prices varying from $25 to $100.

MILL LOTS.

Four Mill-Lots situated on Knobb's Creek, so that logs can be taken from the creek to the mill. These lots have 200 feet each of water front, and over 600 feet deep to Mill street, and are choice sites. The purchaser will also have the right of storage for logs in the boom.

PASQUOTANK COUNTY.

The Land and Lumber Company also offer for sale, one thousand acres of their timbered land along the Main Road leading from Elizabeth City to Hertford and Edenton, Said land heavily wooded, soil very rich and about four miles from Elizabeth City. This land will be sold in lots to suit purchasers and at the low price of ten dollars per acre.

They also offer a tract of three thousand acres in Lots to suit purchasers, near the Pasquotank River, ten miles from Elizabeth City and three miles from South Mills. This land is heavily set with wood and also has upon it a vast amount of saw timber, and has a most excellent soil. This is a fine location for a small Colony. There is now a Public Road running directly through it. This tract is offered at the low price of eight dollars per acre if sold to one party, or at only a fraction more if divided into small lots.

The Company will also sell their farm of 250 acres two miles from Elizabeth City. 125 acres cleared and under good cultivation, well fenced, having upon it two dwelling houses, one new and the necessary out buildings wanted on a farm, and will be sold on very reasonable terms.

Also another farm one mile from Elizabeth City containing one hundred acres, between thirty and forty acres cleared and under cultivation, the balance is now being cut off and is nearly ready to be cleared up and cultivated. This property is very desirable being so near the City though for reasons first given will be sold at a very low price.

We have a finely timbered tract of land situated on the Albemarle Sound twenty miles from Elizabeth City, containing 124 acres. Good timber land bordering on the water is valuable both for wood as well as saw timber as water transportation affords a good margin for wood, say one dollar per cord. This will also make good farm land—will be sold for one thousand dollars.

Also one other tract of land containing 154 acres situated immediately on the Pasquotank River ten miles from Elizabeth City, valuable for wood, and is excellent farming lands, would be sold for six dollars per acre.

GATES COUNTY.

The Land & Lumber Company have a tract of 350 acres of timbered land one half mile from Chowan River and three miles from Winton the county seat of Hertford county. This body of land is well timbered and will be sold at the low price of three dollars per acre.

☞ The most direct and cheapest route is to go to Baltimore by N. C. R. R., then Bay Line steamer to Norfolk, Va., then steamer to Elizabeth City, N. C.
